PREMIUM WATER

Pamir. Osh region. Kyrgyzstan.

Natural drinking water «Pamir» has a superb taste and numerous health benefits. It is collected from a natural source - Orgum spring, which is located in a green mountain area at an altitude of 3485m (11433 ft.) The water absorbs all the power of this mountainous land - the nature itself has enriched it with a variety of macro- and microelements.

A special feature of the production is that no external interferences occur during the whole technological process, such as degassing or demineralization. This means that «Pamir» water is fully natural, which makes it suitable for any age and any occasion.

Quartz, sand and gravel and charcoal filters are used to remove mechanical impurities, which allows to preserve water's physiological usefulness.

Technical conditions and sanitary permission classify «Pamir» spring water as a natural drinking water of the highest quality category.
